The House of Rust John Banville's stunning powers of mimicry are brilliantly on display in this engrossing novel, the darkly compelling confession of an improbable murderer. Freddie Montgomery is a highly cultured man, a husband and father of modern life, and a storyteller of virtuosic gifts.

Bangkok 8 In 1974, the Sellers family is transplanted from London to Sheffield in northern England. On the day they move in, the Glover household across the street is in upheaval: convinced that his wife is having an affair, Malcolm Glover has suddenly disappeared. The reverberations of this rupture will echo through the years to come as the connection between the families deepens. But it will be the particular crises of ten-year-old Tim Glover set off by two seemingly inconsequential but ultimately indelible acts of cruelty that will erupt, full-blown, two decades later in a shocking conclusion. Expansive and deeply felt, The Northern Clemency shows Philip Hensher to be one of our most masterly chroniclers.

Aravind Adiga's The White Tiger is a powerful and critically acclaimed novel. It is set in contemporary India and follows the life of Balram Halwai, a poor rural boy who becomes a successful businessman in the city of Bangalore. The novel explores themes of class, corruption, and ambition, and has been praised for its vivid portrayal of Indian society.

The White Tiger is a study in irony, as Balram's rise to success is built on that most fluid, and increasingly scarce, of goods: water. Yet his heart remains set on something else, on the pretty girl whose star rises along with his, their paths crossing and recrossing, a lifelong affair sparked and snuffed and revived.

The White Tiger is a critical examination of the Indian elite, and a scathing indictment of the corruption that permeates all levels of society. It is a testament to the power of storytelling, and a call to action for readers to consider the complexities of life in contemporary India.
